

Pre-Doctoral and Post-Doctoral Training/Education in Prevention Science (February 2013)

University	Department/ Center	Type of Training	Focus	Requirements	Contact Info
Arizona State University	Prevention Research Center	Pre-Doctoral	-Risk and resilience -Design, implementation, evaluation, and dissemination of preventive interventions -Quantitative methodologies	-Must be enrolled in the doctoral program -One year pre-doctoral program includes: -Coursework -Apprenticeship on a research project -Participation in weekly seminars	Laurie Chassin, laurie.chassin@asu.edu http://prc.asu.edu/Training
Brown University	Centers for Behavioral and Preventive Medicine	Post doctoral	Training in the scientific disciplines of behavioral and preventive medicine		401-793-8000, behavioralmed@lifespan.org http://www.miriamhospital.org/centers-and-services/centers-for-behavioral-and-preventive-medicine/training-program-overview
Johns Hopkins University	Department of Mental Health, School of Public Health	Post doctoral	Training in the theory and methods of prevention science	Two year fellowships with annual stipends from $35,568-$51,036	Dr. Nick Ialongo, 410-955-0414, nialongo@jhsph.edu http://www.jhsph.edu/prevention/Training/index
Pennsylvania State University	The Prevention Research Center for the Promotion of Human Development (PRC)	Pre and Post doctoral training through The Prevention and Methodology Training (PAMT)	Focus on longitudinal, developmental research on risk		814-865-2618, prevention@psu.edu Or: Edward Smith, eam8@psu.edu http://prevention.psu.edu/contact/index.html

		Program
University of California at Berkeley (UCB) and Pacific Institute for Research and Evaluation (PIRE)	Joint program between UCB School of Public Health and PIRE	NIAAA/NIH post-doctoral training program	2-year trans-disciplinary mentoring and training program with emphasis on: - Environmental approaches to the prevention of alcohol abuse and problems - Advanced research methods in prevention science - NIH grant writing - Research ethics, social justice and human subject issues in public health and prevention research.	PhD, MD, JD or equivalent degree in social or behavioral sciences or related field completed prior to the start date U.S. citizen or permanent resident of the U.S.	prcpostdoc@prev.org Cheryl Sieczkowski, Program Administrator Prevention Research Center, 510-883-5756 http://www.prev.org/preventiontraining/
University of Southern California, Keck School of Medicine	Department of Preventive Medicine, Institute for Health Promotion & Disease Prevention Research (IPR)	Post-Doctoral	Training in cancer, obesity, tobacco use prevention and control, behavioral epidemiology, and behavioral translational research	PhD or equivalent doctoral degree	Marny Barovich, barovich@usc.edu http://keck.usc.edu/Education/Academic_Department_and_Divisions/Department_of_Preventive_Medicine/Divisions/Health_Behavior_Research/Education_and_Training/Post-Doctoral_Training.aspx
Yale University	Division of Prevention and Community Research, Department of Psychiatry	Post doctoral	The NIDA T32 fellowship emphasizes five areas of research training: 1) conceptualization, design, and implementation of prevention research using a social ecological framework; 2) knowledge development and application in pre-intervention, intervention, and dissemination research; 3) use of state-of-the-art data analytic and research methods; 4) interdisciplinary	-PhD in community, clinical, developmental, counseling, or health psychology, or a doctoral degree in public health or family studies -strong research background -interest in pursuing an academic career	Jacob K. Tebes, jacob.tebes@yale.edu , 203-789-7645 http://medicine.yale.edu/psychiatry/psychology/postdoc/dpcr.aspx research through collaborations across programs, departments, centers, and institutions; and 5) translational research from controlled settings to real-world contexts with the purpose of impacting prevention practice and policy.

--	--	--	--	--	--

PLEASE NOTE: The Society for Prevention Research provides this list as a resource only. The Society does not endorse any of the specific programs.

If you have suggestions to add or updates to the list please contact Jennifer Lewis, SPR Executive Director, via email at jenniferlewis@preventionresearch.org. Thank you.