JOB DESCRIPTION

Fordham University, Department of Psychology: One open rank tenure-track position in the Applied Developmental Program. The Applied Developmental Psychology doctoral program is seeking a candidate with an established record of publications, teaching and external funding who can contribute to one or more of the programs three specializations: Families, Schools, and Society; Race, Ethnicity, and Culture; Health, Illness, and Well-Being. The specializations reflect the faculty's focus on policy-relevant research from neurologically-based development to social and cognitive issues to school-based and community intervention and evaluation. The ideal candidate will have expertise in applied developmental psychology and/or multidisciplinary policy-relevant research expertise related to vulnerable populations and/or challenges facing people of color. The Department of Psychology offers doctoral degrees in Applied Developmental Psychology (ADP), Clinical Psychology, and Psychometrics. The Department is located on both campuses of Fordham University, with the graduate programs located at our Rose Hill campus in the Bronx and undergraduate programs at both the Rose Hill and Lincoln Center (Manhattan) campuses. Responsibilities include teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels and mentoring students' masters' and doctoral level research. Fordham is an independent, Catholic University in the Jesuit tradition that welcomes applications from men and women of all backgrounds. The university and department have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We are particularly interested in receiving applications from members of underrepresented groups and strongly encourage persons of color to apply. Fordham is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Please send vita, evidence of teaching credentials, representative publications, and three letters of reference to Dr. Kathleen Schiaffino, Chair, Psychology Department, Fordham University, Bronx, NY 10458-5198 or schiaffino@fordham.edu.
