The Catholic University of America, Department of Psychology invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Clinical Psychology for Fall 2013. Applicants should have an ongoing research program with demonstrated potential to attract extramural funding and be committed to excellence in teaching, mentorship, and clinical training. Although a range of content areas within Clinical Psychology will be considered, the Department is especially interested in considering candidates with research programs in adult clinical interventions and/or behavioral medicine/health psychology. Possible areas of interest include clinical interventions for promoting physical or mental health or for treatment of health or mental health disorders, and research on behavioral, psychosocial, cultural, and biological factors influencing health promotion or prevention of health problems.

The Psychology Department has 13 faculty, and offers BA, MA and PhD programs including an APA-accredited program in Clinical Psychology. Faculty have active research programs in a range of areas that attract substantial external funding and involve national and international collaborations. Catholic University is located on a 250-acre, park-like campus in Northeast Washington convenient to neighboring medical centers, universities, and laboratories (including the NIH). Additional information may be found on our web site (<http://psychology.cua.edu>).

To apply, submit a research statement, teaching statement with evidence of teaching effectiveness, curriculum vitae, three representative publications, and three letters of recommendation (sent directly by recommender) to cua-clinpsy@cua.edu; if necessary materials may be mailed to Clinical Faculty Search Committee, Department of Psychology, The Catholic University of America, 4001 Harewood Rd, N.E., Washington, DC 20064. Review of files will begin in October 2012 and continue until the position is filled.

The Catholic University of America is the national university of the Catholic Church and was founded as a center of research and scholarship. We seek candidates who, regardless of their religious affiliation, understand and will make a significant contribution to the university's mission and goals.
