JOB DESCRIPTION

University of California, Merced
School of Social Science, Humanities and Arts: Prevention Sciences

This is a unique opportunity to join a growing faculty in Public Health and Prevention Sciences at the new University of California campus. The hire in Prevention Sciences will join a multidisciplinary group of faculty who enjoy a highly collaborative research environment. We are particularly interested in adding a faculty member who conducts preventive intervention research relevant to conditions with high prevalence and impact in the San Joaquin Valley (e.g., asthma, obesity, diabetes, smoking, teenage pregnancy).

We seek outstanding senior scholars with strong publication and external funding records, demonstrated leadership in program-building, and a commitment to excellence in teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The successful candidate will have a doctorate in field relevant to Prevention Sciences such as Medicine, Public Health, Health Psychology, Health Promotion, Sociology, Health Services Research, Geography, Epidemiology, Social Work, Anthropology, or Biology.
