JOB DESCRIPTION

The Department of Psychiatry at the University of Illinois at Chicago is looking to fill a full-time Director of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry. The Division of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry is part of is one of the largest Psychiatry departments in the Midwest, with 125 faculty, an excellent General Psychiatry Residency Training Program and several fellowships, including a nationally known Child and Adolescent Psychiatry Residency. The Division is associated with the Institute for Juvenile Research (IJR), one of the country's premier research institutes integrating medicine, psychiatry, psychology, and social work under the umbrella of child mental health. We have a strong commitment to providing health care to the underserved populations in Chicago and are well positioned to participate in many new and exciting developments in the area of mental health and behavior. IJR is home to diverse, multidisciplinary faculty who lead research programs spanning genetics/genomics, to brain imaging, to clinical trials, to psychosocial services, school interventions and public health.

The Director of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry is responsible for all clinical activities (Inpatient and outpatient), oversight of the child Clinical fellowship Program, and promotes clinical research activities within the Division.

The successful candidate will have an MD, eligible or Board Certified in Child and Adolescent Psychiatry and eligible or licensed in Illinois. Training, teaching, and familiarity with hospital/clinic day-to-day operations are desirable. Preference will be given to a physician scientist with an active research program. There are opportunities for research and community outreach with generous vacation and retirement benefits. Evaluation of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. For full consideration, applicants must apply online at <http://jobs.uic.edu>, (Professor, Job #26675) and submit a CV and a letter of interest indicating the position of interest, and three (3) letters of references by January 31, 2013. Women and minority applicants are encouraged to apply. UIC is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.
