JOB DESCRIPTION

POSITION: The Center for the Study of Youth and Political Conflict and the Department of Public Health at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville are seeking applicants for the position of Assistant/Associate Professor. This is a full-time, tenure-track, academic-year (9-month) position with an appointment beginning August 2012 or later. The home department for this position is the Department of Public Health with a release of 50% time to the Center for the Study of Youth and Political Conflict. Ethnic minority applicants are encouraged to apply.

QUALIFICATIONS: Required: Earned doctorate in a relevant discipline; published research in refereed journals; an emerging or established research agenda related to youth and health. Desired: a research focus that builds on and extends existing strengths of the department and the center; experience with international health or community health education; and experience working with or studying conflict-affected populations. The Knoxville campus of the University of Tennessee is seeking candidates who have the ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the diversity and intercultural goals of the University.

RESPONSIBILITIES: Primary responsibilities include maintaining a successful record of scholarly activity, including research, publication and grant awards; teaching courses related to health and social disparities, research methods, and/or community health education to master's and doctoral students (no undergraduate teaching required); and professional leadership, academic advising, and service within the university and region. Teaching loads are typically one course per semester, allowing substantial time for carrying out a research agenda with full salary coverage.

DEPARTMENT, CENTER, UNIVERSITY AND COMMUNITY: The Department of Public health offers an accredited MPH degree with three concentrations (community health education, health planning/administration, and veterinary public health) and a PhD in Health Behavior and Health Education (<http://publichealth.utk.edu/>). The Department attracts an ethnically and culturally diverse student body and provides extensive support for both student and faculty interests. The Center for the Study of Youth and Political Conflict engages in research, interventions, program evaluations, and dissemination of information about youth who experience war and other forms of political conflict (<http://youthconflict.tennessee.edu/>). The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in scholarship, learning, and service, and aims to enrich and elevate society. The University welcomes people of all races, genders, creeds, cultures, and sexual orientations, and values intellectual curiosity, pursuit of knowledge, and academic freedom and integrity. The City of Knoxville is situated in a valley between the Great Smoky Mountains National Park and the Cumberland Plateau, areas of great beauty and among the most bio diverse in the United States. Knoxville is a metro area of 650,000, offering many amenities of urban life.

SALARY: Competitive and commensurate with candidate's experience and credentials.

APPLICATION: Review of applications will begin on March 1, 2012 and will continue until the position is filled. Please submit application as a single pdf document. The application should include a letter of application addressing the required and desired qualifications stated in the position announcement, a curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information of three references. Send application to Wendy Smith at wsmith12@utk.edu. Inquiries regarding the position should be sent to Clea McNeely, DrPH, 1914 Andy Holt Avenue (HPR 390), Knoxville, TN 37996, (865) 974-5041, cmcneely@utk.edu.

All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admissions without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, or covered veteran status.
