

Assistant/Associate Professor
Human Development and Family Studies
Colorado State University

Nine-month, tenure-track, assistant or associate professor to contribute to our growing program in lifespan applied developmental science. The substantive research area is in adolescent development/prevention science. We are particularly interested in applicants with applied interests such as: (1) promotion of healthy behaviors in adolescence, (2) developmental psychopathology, (3) social/behavioral epidemiology and adolescent health, and (4) prevention programs – including policy-based research – for at-risk youth. Required qualifications: an earned doctorate in Human Development and Family Studies or related area, scholarly publications in the specialty area, strong methodological and analytical research skills, and a commitment to outstanding teaching and advising. Preferred qualifications: postdoctoral experience, experience supervising graduate students, success in securing external funding, experience with community-based intervention trials, and work with multicultural families/populations. Applicants at the associate professor level are expected to have secured extramural grants, research productivity commensurate with experience, publications in top-tier journals, and a strong record of teaching and graduate advising.

Individuals interested in applying can view a full version of the position at our website: <http://hdfs.cahs.colostate.edu>. To apply, submit electronically a cover letter addressing required and preferred qualifications, statement of research interests and teaching philosophy, curriculum vitae, 3 reference letters (for those applying at the associate level, provide names and contact information for 3 referees), and 3 sample publications to the following website: <http://www.cahs.colostate.edu/hdfs-adolescent>. Application deadline is November 1, 2011; the preferred start date is August 2012. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Colorado State University is an EO/EA/AA employer. Colorado State University conducts background checks on all final candidates. Inquiries about this position should be directed to:

David MacPhee, Ph.D.
Chair, Search Committee
Department of Human Development and Family Studies
Colorado State University 1570
Fort Collins, CO 80523-1570
phone: (970) 491-5503; email: david.macphee@colostate.edu